The Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) Agusan del Sur continues its mission to ensure that even the youngest members of the community are part of the National ID System through the Rehistro Bulilit Campaign. On September 19, 2024, the campaign successfully registered 11 children at the Barangay Daycare Center in San Nicolas, Talacogon, Agusan del Sur.

The registration event was made possible with the support of Barangay Officials and the invaluable assistance of Daycare teacher Ma'am Mary Cris Barba, who played a key role in encouraging local parents to participate. The activity is part of a broader effort to make national ID registration accessible to remote areas, ensuring that children are included early in the process.

The Rehistro Bulilit Campaign is aligned with the PSA's vision of creating a more inclusive national database, enabling young children to access future government services with ease. As the campaign continues to roll out across Agusan del Sur, the PSA team remains dedicated to reaching every barangay, one registration at a time.
